COLUMBIA WILL HAVE MODERN BAKERY SEPT. 15

Excavation Is Begun on Streng's Plant—Capacity Limit Is 16,000 Loaves.

Columbia will have its first modern bakery when Streng's new bakery between Fifth and Sixth streets on Broadway is completed September 15. The building, planned by H. S. Bill, local architect, will cost approximately $15,000. With its equipment it will cost about $20,000. Ernest Hathman is the contractor.

The capacity of this bakery with its two ovens will be about 16,000 loaves of bread a day. Only one oven will be installed at first. The output with the one oven will be from 6,000 to 8,000 loaves a day.

The building, 40 by 120 feet, will be brick. There will be no posts to support it, the entire weight being supported by steel girders. It will be one story high with a basement for the storage of two carloads of coke. The ovens will be fired in the basement. Excavation was started this morning.

The flour will be put in at the front on the right hand side of the building through a thoroughly mechanical process. It will be mixed and taken on a truck to the proofing machine, or a machine which raises the dough. After it is ready for the oven it will be wheeled to the oven. From the oven it will be taken to the cooling room on the other side of the building. From the cooling room it will be wheeled to the wrapping room and then to the trucks for delivery without ever being touched by hand.

In front of the baking rooms there will be an office and a retail room in which bread will be sold to customers.

Streng's bakery expects to enlarge greatly its shipping business. At the new bakery only bread and rolls will be made. The pastry shop at Broadway and Hitt streets also will be maintained.

Among the speakers engaged for the occasion is S. D. Gromer, professor of rural economics in the University who will represent the College of Agriculture. The celebration is to be held at Fairground Park.

E. H. McReynolds, executive secretary of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation and until a few months ago a resident of Columbia, has been placed in charge of the publicity work of the celebration.

DUST MENACES CITY'S HEALTH

Citizens Complain About Carelessness in Dirt Hauling.

Dust, sand, and gravel which is dropped on the streets and pavements from the wagons hauling trash and dirt from the buildings under construction in Columbia, has caused complaints to be registered in the office of the city engineer.

There is no city ordinance against hauling such material over the streets, and the only thing that could possibly be done to avoid it would be to see that more care is taken when the hauling is being done.

The wagons used are generally of the loose-bed type and the material sifts down through the cracks. Overloading causes spilling over the top. There is no taken at the dump to see that the wagons are entirely empty and free from the dust.

It is practically impossible to get some of this material off the pavement, according to the city engineer. Some of it is loose will readily come off when swept or washed, but most of it will pack down and have to wear off.

Dr. M. P. Ravenel, professor of preventive medicine at the University, in discussing dust and its dangers says that the danger of dust varies with its character.

"In the State of Missouri," he says, "we only have to refer to the history of zinc mining at Joplin. It will be remembered that the death among zinc miners was so high, and taking up mining, that it attracted national attention, and was studied by the Public Health Service conjointly with the Bureau of Mines. It was definitely shown in that case that dust was the great danger."

"There are certain dusts which carry disease germs with them, and all dusts may do this from time to time. The great danger of ordinary dust, however, is the injury done to the lungs, and while typhoid fever, anthrax and other diseases may come from certain dusts, it is chiefly diseases of the lungs, and notably tuberculosis, which follows the constant inhalation of dusts."

"Dust is a nuisance in itself, and should not be permitted in any well regulated community. Many railroads, recognizing the dust nuisance, have offered their roadbeds during the summer, and in this way increased the pleasures of travel. The dusty trades have long been recognized as peculiarly hazardous, and throughout the world at the present day, suction apparatus or other contrivances have been installed to lessen the danger. Dust from streets is just as dangerous, other things being equal, as dusts from machines and trades, hence it is the duty of all communities to keep down the dust nuisance and menace."

BIG APPLE CROP IN ILLINOIS

Three Counties Total 500,000 Bushels, Half in Jonathans.

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., June 27.—The apple crop in Calhoun, Jersey and Macoupin counties this year will total more than 500,000 bushels, according to estimates of prominent orchardists in this district. One half of the total yield in the three counties will be Jonathans.

LEGION ELECTS DELEGATES

Ravenel, Hulen, J. Williams, and Douglas to Go to Hannibal. Delegates to the state convention at Hannibal on August 21 and 22 of the American Legion were elected last night at a meeting of the Herbert Williams Post. A motion to invite the convention to Columbia for next year was passed. Those who were elected to attend the convention are J. F. Williams, Dr. M. P. Ravenel, Ruby Hulen, and J. A. Douglas.

Two resolutions were also passed at the meeting, both to be forwarded to the constitutional convention now in session in Jefferson City. One concerns the admittance of foreigners to citizenship in Missouri before they are naturalized citizens of the United States. Missouri is one of the few states where this can be done. The text of the resolution follows:

"In view of the fact that a foreigner can, at the present time become a citizen of the State of Missouri, although not a citizen of the United States, the Herbert Williams Post, American Legion, requests the Constitutional Convention, now in session, to consider this matter, and to make a provision requiring national naturalization as a prerequisite for state naturalization. We ask that you bring this to the attention of the convention through the proper committee."

The second resolution endorsed the provision dealing with the safeguarding and promotion of the health of the citizens of the state.

Interest in the membership drive still continues and to further boost it, Dr. C. M. Sneed offered $5 in gold to the member who brings in the most new members at the next meeting.

The member who brings in the most members by the time of the national convention will be given a trip to New Orleans. Members obtained in the next two weeks on the $5 prize will be counted on the grand total toward the trip.

LOWER FREIGHT JULY 1

Shippers Are Notified of New Tariff Schedules.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 27.—Notices are being mailed out here from the Southwestern Freight Bureau, notifying approximately 4,000 shippers in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Missouri of the new tariff rates which go into effect on every railroad in the country next Saturday.

Under the commission's suggestion, the companies are expected to earn 5 to 12 percent on their capitalization and 1 to 4 percent for betterment. This earning is not guaranteed by the government.

Local railroad officials declare the reductions would be offset soon by termination of the coal strike, revived building operations, increased demand for industrial products and prompt movement of crops. Added to this prospect is the $135,000,000 wage slash, ordered by the Railroad Labor Board, also effective next Saturday.

COLLEGE FUND CASE PENDING

Judge Harris Expected to Hand Down Decision Today.

The case of the disposition of the funds given to the defunct St. Charles College, St. Charles, Mo., was being decided by change of venue in the Circuit Court this afternoon. The fund amounts to approximately $50,000. Katherine Collier, of St. Charles, donated $5,000. George Collier, of St. Louis donated $10,000, and Ezra Overall gave the real estate and buildings, valued at about $35,000.

When the institution was abandoned, the question as to what to do with the income from the funds arose. Some suggestions that the fund be distributed among other colleges were advanced.

Judge David Harris took up the case under advisement and it is expected that a decision will be handed down soon.

CAR CRASHES AGAINST POST

Locking of Steering Gear Probable Cause of Accident.

A car belonging to the Columbia Taxi Co. crashed into a lamp post on the southwest corner of Ninth street and Broadway between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. Locking of the steering gear was given as the probable cause of the accident.

The occupants of the car were not injured, although the force of the impact was sufficient to break off the post just above its pedestal base. The front axle of the car was bent, the fender badly crumpled and the lights broken. The glass in the windshield was not broken. When workmen were removing the base of the post this morning an empty whiskey bottle was found at the bottom.

KIWANIS MEN HEAR ADDRESS ON AUTO CLUB

Columbians Favor Proposed New Organization—Makes for Friendlier Feeling Among Towns.

NO ACTION TAKEN TODAY

Local Club Would Be Affiliated With State Body—Work of Society Is Explained.

J. P. Berry, superintendent of the Automobile club of Missouri, spoke before the Kiwanis club at noon today at the weekly luncheon held at Harris.

Mr. Berry asked the Kiwanis to take no action on the organization of an automobile club, but gave the purpose of such a club so that the members of the Kiwanis would understand the aims of the organization when the officials of the Automobile Club solicit membership in Columbia at a later date.

"The Automobile Club aims," Mr. Berry said, "to make Missouri acquainted with itself by exploring other parts of the state than the immediate vicinity of each township."

Mr. Berry also spoke concerning the location of the primary highway system. His speech was impartial, and showed the need of such a system which should be placed where it would be of most benefit to Missourians in general.

"I think that if any town in the state will join the state club Columbia will," he said. "Moberly, Mexico, Jefferson City, Booneville and Fulton have clubs and Booneville has an official garage. The Taylor Garage is the one which has been selected."

J. P. McMullen of the Taylor garage said that a $10 membership fee meant membership to the state organization and that includes free road service over the state. Any trouble with the motor car will be fixed without cost at an official garage if the motorist is a member.

R. L. Hill said that the club has been endorsed by the Commercial Club and that the proposition will be looked into further at the next meeting of the board of directors.

The state club was formerly the automobile club of St. Louis, Berry said. It was formed in 1902, when there were fewer than 200 cars in St. Louis. In 1907 the governor of the state and the president of the St. Louis club planned a cross state road and in 1911 in Columbia it was formally named the National Old Trails road, he continued. The road has been extended west of Kansas City and east of St. Louis until now it is one of the longest roads in the state.

Arizona's First Woman Official Is Summer School Teacher Here

Miss C. Louise Boehringer, educator, legislator, farmer and acting assistant professor of education in the University this summer, is the first woman in the state of Arizona to hold an elective office. She was given office at a recalled election, the first to be held in the United States. Miss Boehringer has held public office in Arizona for the last ten years.

At present Miss Boehringer is editor of the Arizona Teacher, the official organ of the State Teachers' Association; is a member of the Arizona Legislature and has been unanimously endorsed as the Democratic candidate for the office of state superintendent of public instruction.

As a member of the house of representatives, Miss Boehringer is chairman of the committee on education and has ranking positions on several other committees. Since her election two years ago, she has taken an active part in the work of the legislature, and has had several bills passed.

"The bill passed through my efforts which I take most pride in is the bill making every child born in the state of Arizona a legitimate child. This law means that the illegitimate child will inherit property as any other child born into the family. The bill has been into effect only a year, but members of the bar say that it has already been a great help in prosecuting offenders."

Minnesota and North Dakota are the only two states other than Arizona which have such a law. This law is endorsed by the Children's Bureau at Washington.

"To show you how slow men are to realize the need of social reform and how quickly they recognize the need when there are women in the legislature to plead for the bill, I will tell you about the passage of the bill I have just mentioned. I worked trying to get the bill passed all during the session of the legislature and until 4 o'clock in the morning of the last day of the session. I left my seat in the house to speak for the bill in the senate. The bill was passed in Arizona while it was defeated by other state legislatures that had no women to present the matter before them."

Miss Boehringer is also responsible for Arizona's education bill which provides that the state appropriate for every high school and elementary school $25 per capita according to the average daily attendance of the school. California recently wrote such a measure into its constitution.

"Miss Boehringer was among the first women in the United States to be accepted into public office. For four years she was superintendent of public schools in Yuma County, Arizona, and twice has been secretary of the State Teachers' Association.

Besides being a public officer and educator, Miss Boehringer is a farmer. She owns and operates her own ranch of forty acres under irrigation in Yuma County, Arizona.

"I have developed an interesting herd of cattle," Miss Boehringer said. "I have raised cotton and at present am specializing in alfalfa."

"Oh, no, farming is not drudgery to me. If I lost my grasp on education and buried myself in alfalfa, it would be. I make a study of my crops through the extension department of our state university. Then, I keep in touch with leading farmers who raise the same kind of crops that I do."

of crops that I do as I travel throughout the state in my work as editor of the State Teacher."

Politics offers a big field of endeavor for women, Miss Boehringer thinks. Not is the average man prejudiced against a woman's holding office. During the ten years that she has been in public office, she says that she has been well received.

"Whenever I hear a man denouncing the Nineteenth Amendment," said Miss Boehringer, "I always know that he has come from a limited environment."

Instead of destroying the family, Miss Boehringer thinks that granting the ballot to woman is building up the home. "Now," she says, "two members of the family are interested in legislation. It gives the intellectual powers of husband and wife a point of contact. They have something else to talk about other than backyard quarrels and the day's routine."

Miss Boehringer thinks that every woman should identify herself with one of the leading political parties. "If she is a Democrat, she should know why she is one, and that reason shouldn't be simply because her husband is a Democrat."

Miss Boehringer says that she heartily approves of the work being done by the League of Women Voters.

"I don't always recommend voting for the man instead of the party," Miss Boehringer said. "For the national offices, both parties usually have good men up, and it is wise to vote a straight ticket. In county and state elections, I think that the intelligent woman will vote for the man irrespective of the party."

Miss Boehringer was born in Chicago, Ill., and went to Arizona for the health of a member of the family. She has the B. S. degree in Education from Columbia University, New York. Since 1905 she has been identified with college and normal teaching in Missouri mostly through summer work. This is the third summer she has taught in the University.

Miss Boehringer has three hours' credit in the School of Journalism here, and says she expects to receive her B. J. sometime.
